Farmers Markets

SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL COMMUNITY

Farmers' Markets bring community together by promoting local businesses, providing a venue for entertainment, and encouraging a healthy lifestyle.

When a permanent structure is installed, vendors can move their shops outdoors to a more open environment without the hassle of setting up individual tents. Outdoor markets also allow for expansion and larger attendance without the restrictions of walls or narrow walkways.

Farmers' Markets give everyone access to fresh local produce while keeping revenue within the community. Shoppers have in-person conversations with the farmers who grow their food and develop relationships they would not likely encounter in a supermarket. Not only are patrons supporting local farmers, many other artisans and entrepreneurs are given the opportunity to try out their products with their neighborhood.

Polygon structures provide more than just shade for market venues. Electrical can be integrated for overhead lighting allowing events to extend into evening hours while giving vendors access points to plug-in without the hazards of extension cords running through the area. Signage can also be added to promote the market during off hours. These structures then create a defined space that becomes an identifiable part of the community.

Poligon's streamlined process makes creating the perfect structure for your site easy and efficient. Our sales & engineering teams listen to your ideas and partner with you to design a structure that fits your space, budget, and needs of your community.
